SB Approves 'Crew Cuts' Concert Here

Student sponsorship of a concert by the "Crew Cuts" was approved at the monthly meeting of the student body last Thursday.

The crew cuts are also given to the Student Senate to proceed with the formation of a pep club in the college. Action, although tentatively approved was given the 1956 Student Body Project.

The "Crew Cuts," of "Sh boom" fame, along with Blue Barron's Orchestra, are scheduled to appear in Knight Gym Tuesday, April 24, 1956.

Under the terms of the contract essented by sophomore Stan Vogel, Student Activities chairman, the student body must guarantee the singers a minimum of $1,000 with the musical group having the option of taking 60 per cent of the gross receipts.

$400 From Activities

According to Vogel, Student Activities will put up $400 overall to make the down payment. This money is surplus accumulated over the past several years in the Student Activities Fund.

The concert discussion, most provocative of the evening, also raised the query: "Can the student body give a chance on risking $1,500?" Student consensus indicated favorable sentiment in favor of the project.

Student opinion was more divided on the matter of formation of a pep club. According to senior Bob Vogel, research chairman, the purpose of such an organization would be to stimulate school spirit, coordinate pep activities and arrange travel for out of town games.

Formal Dr Not?

Discussion centered around whether the pep club should be a formal or an informal organization, and whether it would be well wise to promote a clique within the charming group.

Under the setup approved by students, the informal organized group will be directed by a five member committee, committee composed of a cheerleader, a pep band representative, and three members elected from the student body, plus a faculty adviser.

Students may nominate themselves or be nominated on forms available at the Senate office. Deadline for nominations is Jan. 6.

Unanimously passed was a resolution introduced by the Senate Executive Committee to support a Student Body Project. Sill Pres. Don Bunkers stated the proposal contains an informed students that will strive for pay project will be taken to the Senate office or be given to any student.

In the resolution passed by the student body, the project was reaffirmed as a Wartburg tradition. Although no formal rule adopted each year, student approval must be solicited before a drive can be commenced.

Regents Accept Haefner's Resignation

Take Action On Increased Construction, OK Development Of Athletic Stadium

By Herold Kurtz
TRUMPET News Editor

Dr. A. E. Haefner's resignation as dean of the faculty was accepted by the College Board of Regents at its fall meeting here Thursday. He will remain on the Wartburg faculty.

In other action the Board:

—Authorized construction of a wing on Centennial Hall with contracts to be let early spring.

—Approved a comfortable development of an athletic stadium.

—Approved a record-breaking $710,000 operating budget for the college.

—Slapped tuition $5 per semester, and a $10 semester Student Union fee and raised dorm room rent $18 a year.

—Increased class scholarships to $100 and raised high school honor awards to $150.

—Created a $1,200 four-year scholarship to be awarded to an outstanding high school senior.

Haefner

In his letter of resignation, Dr. Haefner stated that he wished to get back to classroom teaching. Effective June 30, 1956, the letter was submitted prior to his recent stroke. He will continue on the Wartburg faculty as Professor of Greek. No replacement has been named to fill the position which he has held since 1951.

Hell To Get Addition

Construction of a wing on Centennial Hall, women's dorm, will begin next spring and will be completed by the fall of 1957, according to provost Piers. Extending south from the wing will make the present capacity of the dormitory for 200 women. Cost of the addition is estimated at $300,000. Adjacent stadium will get under way in spring and will cost other estimates. Fees filling includes remodeling of Old Main and the opening of three houses west of Luther Hall. Houses to be moved are those of H. C. Engelbrecht, college business manager, Dr. John Hilmer, professor of Latin and Philosophy; and the Wartburgian House.

Increase Expenses

Increased operating expenses forced the Regents to raise tuition, room and board, and fees by the American Lutheran Church to $1,50 Student Union fee will be used maintenance of the SMU and will provide for replacement and new equipment in the lounges and recreation room.

Class scholarships were raised from $75 to $100, while high school honor grants were boosted from $125 to $150. A series of competitive tests will determine to whom the twenty-seven class of 1956 high school scholarship will be awarded.

LISTENING ATTENTIVELY as Dr. W. L. Young makes a point are regent members William Voigts, Walter Voecks and Pres. C. H. Becker. Miss Jeanette Frisbie takes minutes of the proceedings.

Kyer At Convo Tues.; Becker Speaks Thurs.

Dr. D. L. Kyer, former superintendent of the Independence Mental Health Institute, and Pres. C. H. Becker of Wartburg College will be the convocation speakers this coming week.

Dr. Kyer, Tuesday's convo speaker, received his master's degree at the University of New Hampshire, his Ed.D. at Harvard and his M.D. from Boston University School of Medicine. He served as Clinical Professor of Psychiatry at the Faculty University of Arkansas School of Medicine for two years.

Kyer is a member of the American Psychiatric Association, diplomat of the National Board of Medical Examiners and a charter member of the Menninger Clinic Psychiatric Societies.

"A Real Man in the Sight of God" is the topic of President Becker's address for Thursday's convo. Wartburg Band will provide the Christmas music.

Haefner In Hospital With Light Stroke

Dean of the Faculty A. E. Haefner was reported to be in "satisfactory" condition at Mercy Hospital after suffering a light stroke last Sunday.

Dr. Haefner, who also teaches Greek, will remain in the hospital for several weeks, according to college officials and they are expected to resume his work after the Christmas holidays.

Music Festival Here Today With Mass Concert At 8

Bremer County Music Festival, being held today on the college campus, will combine high school bands and choruses of Bremer County in a concert tonight at 8 in Knight Gymnasium.

Mass band and chorus rehearsals of an estimated three hundred members each opened the festival this morning.

Rehearse This Afternoon

This afternoon the individual bands and choruses rehearse under the direction of a guest conductor from one of the other schools. Rehearsals are being held at Waverly High and at Wartburg.

This evening's concert will present a varied program, including marches and novelty numbers. Among the highlights will be "Oklahoma," "American Folk Rhapsody," by Grundman, and "Elia's Process of Jubilee," by Wagner.

7 Schools Participate

Seven school—Sumner, Waverly, Janesville, Denver, Readlyn, Tripoli and Frederika are taking part in the festival. It is under the direction of the music directors of Bremer County high schools. Host director is Waverly's Leland Lathrop. A Wartburg graduate, George Gundacker, is the director at Readlyn.

Admission to the concert is 25 cents for high school and college students and 50 cents for adults.

Becker Calls Confab 'Historic'

By Myrne See
TRUMPET Feature Writer

Home from the White House Conference on Education in Washington, D.C., which ended Dec. 1, Wartburg's president, Dr. C. H. Becker, referred to the assembly as "perhaps the greatest in education history."

Dr. Becker was appointed by Iowa Gov. Leo Hoegh to head a group of 24 voting delegates allotted Iowa on the basis of population.

The 1,600 regular delegates, 300 alternates representing 48 states and Alaska, were welcomed by President Eisenhower. Also present were 300 observers and 100 guests.

Pres. C. H. Becker . . . discusses education.

Dr. Becker, "but there was never an official report on it."

'Distilled Thinking'

"The term 'distilled thinking' of the total assembly' was used recently to describe this method of discussing the issues," Dr. Becker explained.

Only one-third of the delegates represented educational institutions, manufacturers, a chemist, a labor leader and a woman active in school reorganization were among those at the same discussion table as the Wartburg College president.

Twenty-seven states were represented.

"They were people from the grass roots, interested in education from the standpoint of parents and people in the community," Dr. Becker commented on the representation.

Stokes Moderate Trend

As a high point near the close of the conference, Dr. Becker mentioned visiting an hour and half to shake the hand of Vice Pres. Nixon at a reception in the National Gallery of Art. Another was the concluding address in which Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Marion B. Folsom "sponsy and forceful" promoted federal aid to education.

"As outgrowths of the White House Conference, Dr. Becker feels we can look for continued interest in education on the local level, in separate in the community and state of public and secondary schools and forthcoming federal aid to schools.

The Cup Runs Over

Who is the slayer, Who the victim? SPEAK.

—By John Eaton

Death Smiles On Highway

Only a hairline of luck separates a close call in driving from an accident. Thousands of such close calls are recorded annually without accidents. But there are no statistics to recount the phenomenal number of near misses that occur upon our nation's highways every Sunday.

Following is only one example of these common encounters with Fate:

On a quiet Iowa afternoon prior to Thanksgiving, a carload of students were driving east on Highway 30 in eastern Iowa when another automobile suddenly swung into the path of their car on the road.

An elderly man sat at the wheel, seemingly frozen as he stared blankly at the accident, the unexpected that appeared about to happen. Only a split second was left for the driver of the car in the path of the oncoming car to react. In the moment, death seemed so close, so unbearable, once the new shatter-proof windshield would prevent a bloody interpose and would be smashed with the head-on collision.

The wide student driver braked for the unknown, which was the close gravel and mud appeared a welcome sight. Suddenly the elderly man swerved in and drove on. A crash had been averted. Death had been checked.

Afterwards the one spoke of the trouble the old man had recently caused. These former minors were becoming too much of an every day occurrence to think much about.

As long as you get by, seems to be the attitude of many of the young and old drivers today. This attitude must be changed if accidents are to decrease in number.

Close calls are preventable—because close calls can be avoided if drivers would only think of what the consequences might be before taking chances.

There are two good ways to prevent brushes with death on the highway: DON'T TAKE CHANCES and DON'T FORCE YOUR LUCK.

GLOBULAR GLIBBLINGS

Hope For Existence Hinges On WW III

By Don Oberdorfer

One of the most interesting areas of political interest in the world today is the factor of world peace. When one looks at the situation today one sees that the very main parties involved are the Communists and the United States.

The topic which we discussed in World Affairs Forum Wednesday evening was concerned with this problem of war and peace. The World War is now being fought. The parties involved are the U. S. and Russia as warring.

In the time which has elapsed between World War II and the present, Russia has conquered 600,000,000 people and has taken over the governments of many countries. What has the U. S. accomplished during this period of time? Nothing!

Once we have placed preventive measures against the spread surge of the Communists however, we have done little to regain the lost slaves, the which Russia has gained by force.

Communists fear values over the Eastern part of Europe and much of Asia. Here they are working desperately on the East Indies and the Middle East. The indifferent attitude of the U. S. is seen by the great amount of the Egyptian arms going into and the Russian influence in Iraq and the Arab states.

The United States must attempt to win the confidence of the other countries by merely other than arms. It must convince the people that it is going to have strong confidence in their representative government and in their action for world peace.

The general attitude of the members of the forum seemed to be that the United States should employ different means of combating the spread of the Russian influence. It was taken a glance at the methods employed by the Communists. It can be easily seen why they are so hard to combat.

The techniques used by the Russians include propaganda, insurrections, assassinations, infiltrations and trade. Much of the territory gained is through the process of causing civil war, which will split a nation in half. Then the Communists step in, put together the pieces and set up a puppet government of their own.

Russia has been very effectively participate in this war, it must fight fire with fire. It is suggested by some that a different means in an effort to effect a peace plan, it is imperative the U. S. do this.

World War I was called the "war to end wars." World War II was called the "war for peace." But it is not yet certain that the war to guarantee existence.

Footnotes To Faith:

'Today—Only A Forgotten Tomorrow'; Altmann Takes Time To Explain Faith

By Don Altmann

Yesterday's forgotten tomorrow is today. We can live but one day at a time — that is, one day at a time in the immediate present. Yet we do not appear to be living our day in the present.

Altmann

Instead, almost everything we do hinges upon the past or on the future. Forgetting the past and looking ahead to the future, we could be lost while we remember or while we dream of things to come.

It has been said that our Christianity often is not a DOWN because we do not live up to its principles. Here is just where the problem arises. We spend a lot of time thinking about what services we have been doing, so that we can say we have done our part.

Yesterday, we did do something, about it—tomorrow? By the time tomorrow comes, our burning fire to serve has become a mere spark. For Christianity to be lived on "little" daily doses, it must be daily supply. We, in proportion to our fervent zeal, have you ever stopped to think that a soul might be lost today and yet you didn't have time it yesterday?

Example after example can be cited of the things we did on that tomorrow instead of doing them on the day before. We are familiar with how far we can get behind with our work if we keep putting it off until tomorrow.

Since the work of a Christian is Christian living, we can just be kind, we do get behind and we are behind in our Christian work. Tomorrow just so darn late sometimes.

Oftentimes the best example of a true Christian is not what we do, (live, radiant, shining example of what Christianity forth through our life.

We should not be satisfied in being Christians one day a week, when we have the opportunity to today offers the same opportunity be Christians every day of our lives?

By doing today the things we should do today, our prayer life in Him will be strengthened, we can form a faith in Him that is built on solid rock and we can let our light so shine that others might find Him in time to lead a stumbling friend from darkness into Light Eternal in Christ.

We cannot live forever as we tense times. So much more essential is the Christian, that not despair or shirk his responsibility of living out the Christian principles our Christianity will not break DOWN. If we are truly rooted in Him and to Him, we would not spend our time, a tomorrow's forgotten yesterday—today.

We will then have a today that has been lived, life filled with experience and joy, which through faith will more so of a place in His Eternal Kingdom.

Today is not realize that today's forgotten tomorrow.

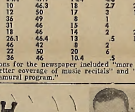
Constructive suggestions for the newspaper included "more news about campus events," "better coverage of music festivals" and "more complete news on the intramural program."



It is not sufficient to describe a college man or woman as a person who studies. Let's classify the various types of scholars who stumble along quietly under the shadow of the dome of Wartburg College with grits.

Husband Hunter—neatest of the female species, this person has no other reason for being in school than that which her name implies. She also is the only one who can be classified as intelligent—not profound, but intelligent. This student is readily identified by the fact that she spends her days when she passes a poor, innocent gremlin or future school teacher. Beware, this type is armed and may be dangerous.

Slightsher—this student can be identified by the heavy bags under his eyes. He is a professional bagging back on the job. His daily diet consists of 3.45 coffee breaks and cokes. The only thing that can distract him from his daily routine is a pretty girl walking by and emphasizes that she exists. He is also distracted after the twitching hour. The slightsher species are experts at twitching their ears in two ways.

Bull Slinger—this fellow doesn't spend his time studying, sleeping or behavioring in class. He is well aware of the fact that the athletes in the dorm, concerns himself with things of a more important nature—who will win the Miss America and Miss Universe or whether or not Marilyn Monroe has more sex appeal than Jane Russell. He can tell you the betting averages of every man on the Yankees or how much work is required to chop and channel a hot rod. He has a detailed plan worked out on how to slip "Rock around the Clock" on the Old Main public address system in the middle of the night. He can ask him once what tomorrow's assignment is, if he dares.

Complicated—probably this classification comes closest to including all of the Wartburg students. The student's goal is fulsome, or the Dean coffee hasten like battery acid, or the coed is a lonely, or the professor's lecture is boring, or the Knight Beat is a mystery is unfair, or town doesn't have daylight saving time or the cafeteria is closed or the Trumpet is late or the Knight Beat is anything to complain about he would suffer a severe case of frustration.

THE TRUMPET RECOMMENDS:

Read This; Go Crazy With Schroeder

By Duana Schroeder

"It's a wonderful thing just to sit down and figure out how many ways there are to be crazy."

One way is to go to college and another is to read a small anthology of humor called Subtreasury of American Humor.

Schroeder

Edited by E. B. White and K. S. White, this compilation of some of the finest prose and poetry written in America has had a lasting history. The above quotation is taken from that book.

It was published for the first time in 1941 by Coward-McCann and has had eight printings since. It was a Book-of-the-Month Club selection in '42. The Modern Library edition came out in '48. It was condensed into an Armed Services publication in '46, and this year the abridged volume came out in the form of a pocket book.

The book is divided into nine sections filled with the wit and wisdom of many writers of all of the 20th century. Among them are Dorothy Parker, Ogden Nash, James Thurber, Robert Benchley, Clarence Day, Ring Lardner, Stephen Leacock and a bevy of other outstanding names.

In the first section, entitled "Stories and People," excerpts from Thurber's story book "Fables" and a short story by Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings, "Cracker Jack Bird Dogs," are included. The author is classified as a humorist but these bits are their reputations as serious writers few example or selected chapters from novels and short stories. Other first selections are of such a choice that they make the reader want to read the rest of the book from which it is taken.

Satire, columns, parodies, satire, verse, reminiscence, a little burlesque, and a few cartoons are thrown into the volume with rare ingenuity.

Subtreasury of American Humor is not intended to be encyclopedic or historical, by any means. The editors found that it was a little too wealthy. So they tried to pick the best.

Both E. B. and K. S. White are duly suited for the task. Katherine S. White has been an editor for "The New Yorker Magazine," a humor magazine in its own right, for some time. E.B. White, an outstanding humorist, who has some of his own pieces in the book, has contributed "The Second Time Around the Corner," which was an outstanding feature of the book.

Letters to and author, husband and wife, have been amplified in the book which are they achieved with so much success.

Campus Community Chest Shows $678 With More Next Week

With final tabulations to be completed next week, the Campus Community Chest reports a collection of $678, according to Chest treasurer Charlotte Mae Hagemann.

Although considerably below the goal of $1,000, Chest Chairman Mel Fraize still considers it to be satisfactory, since this is the first time a project such as this has been undertaken at Wartburg.

The money collected will be divided as follows:

—$100 to the Student Memorial Fund;

—11 per cent to the Student Emergency Fund;

—33 per cent to Lutheran Student Action;

—15 per cent each to the Bartels Home for the Aged and the Waverly Children's Home;

—7 per cent each to the American Heart Foundation and the Cancer Society;

—14 per cent to the International Christian University of Tokyo, Japan.

New Math Course To Be Offered Here

"Modern Algebra," a new mathematics course, will be offered here second semester, according to Engineering Department head Dr. John Chellevold.

Offering three hours of credit, the course will be open to anyone who has taken first year mathematics.

Organ Students Recital Tuesday Eve In Old Main

Students of Dr. E. A. Hordvedt and Warren Schmidt, both of the Music Department, will present an organ recital Tuesday evening at 8 in Old Main.

International LL Committees Convene On Campus

Meeting on the Wartburg campus this weekend are the Executive Committee and Project Committee of the International Lutheran League.

Beginning with a group discussion in the Fuchs Lounge yesterday, the LL Committees have to wind up business tomorrow. Purpose of this meeting is to plan the material to be used in the 12½ five projects for the coming year: Spiritual Growth; Service; Literature; Child Union and Recreation. Promoters and members of the Committees of the Lutheran League are attending the three day meeting.

The Rev. Chester Patton, Assistant Youth Director of the Adventure Bible, is meeting members of the Executive Committee of the LL who are: Co-Chairmen are Dr. George Lynch, vice president of Valparaiso University, senior, Glenn Wolff, and Secretary Eleanor Koester.

Miss Phyllis Reeck, Columbus, Ohio, Junior League secretary, and Wartburg students Eve Janssen and Helen Rae Sonnenschein, committee members, are also in attendance.

Deadline Set Wed. For Castle Tales

Entries deadline for Castle Tales, campus literary magazine, is Wednesday.

Short stories are in demand, according to senior Elizabeth Marquardt, editor. Poems, sketches and other articles will also be accepted.

Articles are sent to Box 1, Elizabeth Marquardt, Box 224, Shirley Cords, Box 905, or Miss Marjorie Wolff, Journalism Department head, at the Publications house.

DR HOLM CHI RHO VISITOR

Cords Completes Casting For 'Dust Of Road', Christmas Play To Be Presented December 20

After two days of casting for the Christmas play "Dust of the Road" by Kenneth Goodman, Director Shirley Cords, recently selected the four people to fill the roles in the one act play to be presented Dec. 20 at convocation and at evening chapel.

Warner

John Werner, sophomore, comes to the stage for the second time this year as he portrays the part of a tramp. The tramp is the scorn of Judas Iscariot, who returns to earth one day each year to go about doing good.

An element of greed is created in the story by a man and wife, Peter and Prudence Steele, who will be portrayed by John Bertrand, senior, and sophomore Pam Stradthoff, making her first appearance on the stage this year. This will be Bertrand's second.

The final character is that of an old man to be played by sophomore Henry Fleitner.

Topics Announced For Sun. Sessions

Leaders and their topics for this week's Bible Discussion Groups include seniors Mary Hoh, "Talents"; Janice Roberts, "Romans 6"; Bob Vogel, "Revelation"; and Wayne Landgrebe, "The Seed Growing Secretly (Mark 4:26-29)."

Others are juniors Milton Ott, "David, the Man"; Bob Wessels, "Plan of Salvation"; Ed Schroeder, "The Lord's Prayer"; and Art Matthias, "Israel's Sins."

Discussion groups are held each Sunday at 9 a.m. in the Parish House of St. Paul's Church.

Engagement Revealed

Engagement recently announced was that of Judy Gerber, sophomore, to Don Mindorf, senior. Both are from Eau Claire, Wis. No date has been set for the wedding.

Cagers' Rally Falls Short In 76-75 Loss

Wesleyan Retains 41-40 Halftime Lead To Gain Second Iowa Conference Victory

By Dale Kapinke
TRUMPET Sports Editor

Despite a torrid comeback in the waning seconds last night, the Waverly basketteers fell before Iowa Wesleyan, 76-75, in their Iowa Conference opener at Mount Pleasant.

The loss gives the Knights a 0-1 season record and a 0-1 loop mark. For Wesleyan, it was the second straight victory against two tough rivals. Tonight Waverly meets Buena Vista, second conference favorite, at Fairfield.

John Ackes popped in a jump shot from the right side seconds after the opening whistle sounded to give Waverly a 2-0 lead. Setting a fast pace, the Knights flashed to a early 8-2 advantage. Wesleyan bounced back to keep the score even. The lead constantly swayed back and forth the first half, with Wesleyan finally pulling ahead at the mid-mark, 41-40.

Al Injures Ankle

Al Bahlmann injured his ankle in a wild scramble for the ball in the first half and may see only limited action tonight. Knight cagers were cold at the outset of the second period and fell nine points off the pace with eight minutes left to play.

Hitting in streaks, the Opposition pushed to within one point as the clock showed two minutes of play.

A time-out saved the day for Wesleyan substitute Gilchrist the time when he sank a field goal from with two minutes left and found the range from the foul tackle to give the Wesleyan instrumentalist seven point lead.

Knights Fight Back

The Knights fought back dog tight to cut the lead to two points. With nine seconds left, Bahlmann countered on a tip in bound, chopping the deficit to one point. Wesley took the ball to the center and time ran out.

Press proved costly for the hard-wood locals as they outscored the Pacers 32-23 from the field, but collected only 11 gift shots to Wesleyan's 26.

Wesleyan controlled the boards, grabbing 53 rebounds to the hosts' 36. Mel Frahm, Knight center, led rebound by 19.

Warthing hit on a 43 per cent clip, netting 32 field goals in 74 attempts, while Wesley sank 30 of 69 net shots, a 43 per cent, or a 38 per cent shooting average.

Displaying a unusual half time defiant, Knight boosters recorded their longest time in their loop opener last Saturday night, as they sank St. Mary's 67-63 on Knight Gym.

With the score knotted 57-57 in the final frame, the Knights dished the game with a 10-point solunge in which each of the starters hit a field goal, and then coasted to the win.

KNIGHT CENTER Mel Frahm tries a beat shot against St Mary's as Steward (L) and Bahlmann (11) wait for the rebound. Things didn't go so well—Frahm missed the shot, and Bahlmann failed to get the rebound.

IF TRUMPET sports writers have their way—and history shows they often do—then the 1956 version of the Warthburg basketball team should cop its second straight Iowa Conference championship.

But in the '55-'56 season, the crystal ball fogged up, no one attended the season sessions and the scribes had to resort to mere guesswork, asking farms to wind up their whole actuarial nearly every one knew Luther was destined to win this year.

So it's with a feeling of pride and confidence that ol' Stark and the rest of the Trumpet sports staff approaching the following around of the opposition conferences and reveal their predictions for the forthcoming Iowa Conference battle.

Accordingly to the sports prognosticators, Parsons, fresh from an Iowa Conference football championship, will be breathing heavily down the Knights' necks. With 10 lettermen returning from last year's third-place squad and Jerry Ron Foster working the boards, the Parsons aggregation will be strong.

Simpson is a second division club in this year's loop which shows all indications of being one of the stronger conferences in the Midwest. Iowa Wesleyan is a dark horse bright and will be pushing toward the top.

Dubuque and Buena Vista should give the Dubuque fans something to yell about, but nothing in the way of a championship appears to be in store for them.

Campbell's Squad Triumphs, 89-78

Assistant Coach Bob Campbell's junior varsity squad knocked its way to a 60 to 76 victory over the Reserve city team last Monday night in the Knights Gym.

The "Pups" are composed of freshmen and sophomores only. No one past his sophomore year may see action with the second squad.

The starters included Duane Boehnke, James Schwarz, Roger Klingman, Charles Mashe and Mel Friesen. Boehnke, Schwarz and Friesen combined to tally 41 points.

Knight Matmen At TC Today For AAU Meet; Johansen Gunning For Experience, Competition

By Gary Blehm
TRUMPET Sports Writer

Experience and a taste of competitive wrestling is Coach Norm Johansen's announced purpose in entering the Iowa State Teachers College invitational wrestling meet being held today at Cedar Falls.

Many of Coach Jo's matmen will be making their debuts on the college mat. With the exception of the three returning letter men, Wendell Williams, Merle Funk and Tom Gidewell, all squad members will have to prove themselves.

Gildewell

Jo To Enter All Men

Johansen hopes to enter all men who are working out. He feels this initial contact at an open meet may give the novice wrestlers more assurance.

ISTC-AAU Annual Meet

The ISTC-AAU invitational is an annual meet. The preliminaries begin at 9 a.m., and the semi-finals at 2 p.m. The meet consists of several divisions, but the Warthburg matmen will compete mainly in the open division.

Colleges competing include Warthburg, Iowa State, University of Iowa, Iowa State Teachers, Cornell and Coe.

Knights Face Parsons Tonight

By Bill Malvin
TRUMPET Sports Writer

Wartburg, defending Iowa Conference champion, and Parsons, the team regarded as most likely to succeed this year, clash in one of the highlights of the young basketball season tonight at Fairfield in the Parsons Gymnasium.

The strong Parsons squad has rolled to three victories this season, trounching non-conference foes Dubuque, Omaha, 63-44, and Ames, 83-77, and gaining its first conference victory by edging Central Dorcas, 69-64.

Stymied by the return from service of Ron Kester, 6' 7" center, the Knights have relied on second sequoia last year, Parsons compiled a 104 conference record to finish third behind Wartburg and Central.

Well Be Tough—Parsons Coach

Coach O. R. Nelson, commenting on his team's prospects stated optimistically, "With 10 lettermen, we'll be tough."

John Smith has led the Parsons scoring attack this season, pouring 72 points through the hoop from his guard position. Forward Rod Smith has connected for 61 points and an even dozen tipins. Despite being held to two points by St. Ambrose, Kester contributed 32 points in the first three games.

Next Tuesday night, in Waterloo in Oppermann's Knights meet Dubuque University in the home conference opener at Kaufman Gymnasium.

Sportans Improved Over Last Year

Mingling only one Victory in three starts this season, the Sportans are still regarded as improved over last year. The six teams that have downed them are Cornell, defending champion of the Midwest conference, and Platteville, a strong Wisconsin team.

Dubuque, six letterwinners from last year's squad, three of them, Jerry Fruehling, 6'1" Bill Reid, and 6'2" Dale Schacker, are starters in the front court and have led the Spartans in their opening games.

Probable Starting Line-ups

Parsons		Dubuque
R. Smith	F	Duwayne Petrichek
J. Smith	F	Bill Reid
Kesters	C	Dale Schacker
Ruhl	G	Gerald Frost

UP, UP—but it doesn't go in. Ken Oppermann misses this one as the Ambassadors bow to the Knights, 25-18.

Lopsided scoring and rough play highlighted the second night of Intramural League basketball competition last Thursday.

With Julian Slater hitting the hoop for 18 points, Grossmann III of the Wesleyan Ambassadors walked to a three-way tie for first place by hanging a 54-6 loss on Herker.

American League president is similar situation as Grossmann III furnished a 38-9 crusher for Grossmann I. Nights kept its victory march intact by spoiling North Halls' opening 25-18. Eight free throws by Nights' Wendell Mathias spelled the difference. He ended with 12 points.

Trailer Court took a 48-27 decision from Harris, tying the Nights for first with two victories and setting the stage for a showdown next week. Waverly defeated Alpha, 46-30.

Other games in the National League saw Sixth Street win over the Campus Trotters, 44-37. Vogel nose pin a 38-33 defeat on North Hall III, and Kirkpatrick take a 29-24 decision from North Hall I.

Pennant Hungry Keglers Close In On Cedar Lawn As Competition Gets Hot

Only one to six games separate the current league leaders from the onslaught of a pack of chasers probably hungry pennants after last Wednesday's bowling in the Wartburg Cooperage Bowling League.

Under the dangerous lights dropped on Cedar Lawn's 20th anniversary and the overall hot performances of Richelieu's men, the Never Dreams absorbed four straight setbacks, sinking in a three-way tie for third, while the front runners were taking three games from Tee Jetters.

Faculty's bulls were rolling with changing power against the opponents as their pin scrounce lifted them out of the cellar prison into a three-way tie for third—only seven games out of first place—by defeating Bull Toppers, 3-1.

Four bowlers come close to breaking into the coveted 200 game. Al Bollmann and Chuck Schumann of Ritchie Pontiac hit 191 and 192 pred Jaspers and John Kreitlow of Cedar Lawn duplicated the feat.

Dick Schoenke of Dairy Bar topped all bowlers with a high 219 performance.

This year, despite a losing season by the Knight graduates, Mary Helen's passing and ball handling gained him recognition on the first string All-conference eleven.

Averaging 18 points a game on the hard court last season, Art made the first strong All-conference team in basketball. If the first two games of the present season, when he connected for 26 and 30 points, are any indication, Wartburgh will undoubtedly again get a forward post in the Iowa Conference.

Art Second Baseman

Looking forward to spring, Art will probably again fill the second base position on the Knight team, a job he has held for two years, as he rates as a consistent fielder and a good hitter.

When asked about this year's Iowa Conference basketball race Art replied, "Wartburg has a good chance to win the Iowa Conference championship."

TRIPLE-THREAT ATHLETE

Art Wows 'Em On Gridiron, Diamond, Basketball Court

By Bill Malvin
TRUMPET Sports Writer

Art Marghelon rates as football quarterback, basketball guard and baseball second baseman—have he rates as the fine athlete Wartburg junior, from Windsor, Colo., fits the bill at all three positions.

Before coming to Wartburg in 1951, Art was already gracing his athletic prowess in high school at Windsor. He earned two letters in football, two in basketball and three in baseball during his prep days. He also participated in the Colorado state basketball tournaments with his high school team.

Despite his current junior standing, Art has already won six varsity letters at Wartburg. He has lettered at least once in every major sport.

Rates in Football

During the 1954 football season, Art connected on enough of his passes to rate among the top small college passers in the nation and was selected to the All-conference second team.

This year, despite a losing season by the Knight graduates, Marghelon's passing and ball handling gained him recognition on the first string All-conference eleven.

Averaging 18 points a game on the hard court last season, Art made the first strong All-conference team in basketball. Winning the conference basketball title last year was one of the greatest thrills of his career. Art noted, that he also rates the St. Ambrose victory and the Luther game, when he scored 30 points, as other highlights.

Wartburg's foes will probably sigh with relief after next year when they know that they've seen the last of Art Marghelon as a quarterback, a guard and a second baseman.
